1925 Tobacco Co-Ops Ready

The first tobacco of the 1925 crop has already reached the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association in South Carolina. The load placed upon the cooperative floors at Lake City was brought in by a grower who delivered his last two crops to the auction floors.

That the united tobacco farmers of South Carolina are fully aware that by their organization prices for tobacco have been held to an average which is two times the price which they received during the dozen years before the war. In fact the $21.33 which South Carolina farmers have averaged for every hundred pounds of the weed, the past three years, has put their tobacco almost on an equal footing with that of Eastern North Carolina and the old belt. For this they thank the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

New contracts for deliveries of 1925 crop have recently been reaching the headquarters of the association at Raleigh. These contracts came without solicitation, but members of the association in all tobacco producing counties of South Carolina have now put on a campaign for new members as the first important step of their fourth season of orderly marketing. They are now on the warpath for new members.

The benefits gained by the tobacco organization have been impressed strongly upon the South Carolinians, particularly last year when they slackened slightly in their efforts to support their association and later saw tobacco farmers across the line in Georgia receiving $21.82 a hundred for their tobacco when the South Carolina weed was averaging $17 a hundred, a difference of nearly five cents a pound.

This year there will be no weakening on the part of the South Carolina co-ops, according to present indications, as the new members and reaction in favor of the association will unquestionably add to the already large proportion of the South Carolina crop which is signed up with the association.

Members of the association in the South Carolina belt have definitely set out to bring its deliveries there to over thirty million pounds.

Will You Change Bad Debts to Good?

Then help every tobacco farmer change speculation to cooperation in marketing the big money crop of our section.

Do you know what cooperative marketing of tobacco means for farmers, bankers and merchants? If you do not know, take a hard look at the facts!

The Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association has put farmers on their feet and made good customers for the merchants and bankers in hundreds of counties in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

Its members are pulling themselves out of debt, paying their bills, meeting their notes, and getting ahead of the game. An average of twenty dollars a hundred pounds for tobacco distributed in payments through the year beats the old average of twelve dollars a hundred paid in lump sums and spent all at one time.

Here are facts worth noting. A word to the wise is timely!

Sidney Young, a merchant of Butterworth, Va., had 92 overdue accounts, 85 of these being against non-members of the Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and 7 against members of that organization in a county where more than half of the tobacco farmers have signed the marketing contract.

W. Boiseau, of DeWitt, Va., had 151 overdue accounts, 150 non-members of the marketing association and one member.

J. W. Adkins & Co., Dinwiddie, Va., had 63 overdue accounts, 50 non-members and 13 members.

From Eastern North Carolina, John W. Cawthorne, a merchant of Zebulon, in Wake County writes: "I will cheerfully get from 600 to 800 small accounts on my books. The record of my 1923 business of unpaid accounts up to November 13, 1924, shows that I had 95 delinquent accounts, 71 of the 95 were non-members of the tobacco association, 24 were members, and 17 out of the 24 were contract-breakers."

Share Mercantile Company, in Stokes County, has on his books $4,400. Only $1,400 of this is owed by members of the Tobacco Growers Association. One of the leading doctors in King, N. C., has $7,200 on his books; only $2,000 of this is owed by Coops. Either of these men will trade their non-member accounts for Coop. accounts.

Back cooperative marketing of tobacco and you will have customers with heads up, debts paid, cash in hand. Neglect cooperative marketing and you are inviting a return of pre-war prices and the debts which the farmers, merchants and bankers broke or labored under in 1920.

Town Officers Nominated

Mass-Meeting Called—Chamber of Commerce Has Busy Meeting

The Chamber of Commerce held its regular meeting at the Courthouse Monday evening. The meeting was well attended and several ladies were present.

The report of the committee on welfare was made by Rev. R. E. Redding in the absence of Rev. W. M. Thompson, chairman, which report was full, and suggested officers for an organization of boys within a radius of five miles of the town, between the ages of 12 and 18 years to be known as R. E. Lee Brigade. The report was adopted and the officers elected—President, L. Crawley; President's Cabinet, Chas. F. James, B. O. Anderson, Jerry Burke, W. F. Woolfolk. This cabinet has selected and elected Don Moses Commander of the Brigade. Boys who desire to join should see the Commander

The secretary read correspondence from State Chamber of Commerce looking to the development of a part of the surrender grounds here and the State chamber is co-operating. S. L. Ferguson, A. H. Clement, J. A. Burke, C. S. McDearmon, and J. R. Horsley were appointed a committee to look after the entertainment of a moving picture artist and a representative of State Chamber here soon. Historical views of Virginia are soon to be on the screen.

C. W. Smith offered resolution that a mass-meeting be held in courthouse on July 17th at 8 p. m., of the electors of the town for the purpose of nominating a mayor and six councilmen for the town of Appomattox.

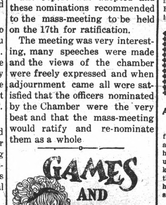
A. R. Harwood offered an amendment that two nominations be made for mayor and twelve for council.

D. H. Clement opposed both resolutions, taking the ground that the Chamber had no right to nominate officers for the town and that the voters at the poll should select their own officers. The original resolution was adopted and the chair proceeded to name the following committee who retired to consider nominations—C. W. Smith, A. H. Gregory, A. R. Harwood, T. W. Moses and H. M. Burge. The Committee reported as follows: For Mayor—J. W. Cawthon, jr.,

For Council—R. S. Wheeler, C. S. McDearmon, Chas. F James, A. H. Gregory, C. T Moses and Don Moses.

The report was adopted and these nominations recommended to the mass-meeting to be held on the 17th for ratification.

The meeting was very interesting, many speeches were made and the views of the chamber were freely expressed and when adjournment came all were satisfied that the officers nominated by the Chamber were the very best and that the mass-meeting would ratify and re-nominate them as a whole



All boys would like to be acrobats. Yes, and some girls, too! The best practice for becoming an acrobat that I know is to play "Twister." My, how you have to turn and twist and what stunts you have to do to keep from being "twisted!" Two boys kneel on the floor on one side of the room and Bobby on the other. Each has a square of paper with the name of a city printed on it, pinned in the middle of his back. The boys start walking toward each other and each must try to see what name the other has. Of course, they must not let even be known. As soon as one sees the other's name he must call it aloud. Then he is the winner of the game and another couple take the twisters' places. Try it. It's fun for the boys and girls, too. 'Cause they get to see all the twisting.

When the Ball Rises!

Don't you get hungry at recess time? It's comfy to have a little snack to munch on then, isn't it? If someone suggests we just bake some nice raisin cookies to take to school you can tell them that this is the best recipe for them:

1 cup sugar.
1 egg yolk.
½ cup butter.
½ cup milk.
2 cups flour.
2 cups self-rising flour.

Cream the sugar and butter; then add the eggs and egg yolks well beaten. Next add milk, the flour sifted three times and raisins added and dumped. Then thoroughly and turn into buttered individual tins. Bake in a moderate oven.

INDUSTRIAL HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Fort Smith, Ark., guarding the river ford in Indian days, has looked down on dramatic events. Today it is at a crossroads in industrial development as it was once at a crossroads in pioneering. It is reached by a west-of-the-Mississippi that never carries a "flitter"—yet is it a metropolis, an industrial center. And like all industrial centers nowadays, it wants women in its industries.

Two wholesale clothing houses, a paper-box plant, a button factory, two "pants and overall" factories, and I know not what in the line of farm supply houses now surround the old gray pile of the fort, and furnish a spirit of hustle and success that runs up and down the streets. Country-bred girls are sucked in to look after the work in store and office and factory, as they are sucked into the industrial whirlpool of New York and San Francisco and Chicago—but with a difference.

What woman holds the most interesting job in Fort Smith? That's hard to say. It's hard to discover even when you're right on the spot. Certainly one of the interesting ones is the job of persuading over what an imaginable person might call the intake pipe to the suction pump of Fort Smith industries. She is the little woman in black suit and crisp white blouse—and oh, a most understanding smile!—who wears a Travelers' Aid button and presides over the station waiting room. (I learned you that Fort Smith is citified. It's also very upand-coming about having all the new wrinkles in town management, and the Travelers' Aid desk is only a sample.)

There is enough time and space and general spirit of being interested in your neighbor to make Fort Smith still keep the best of its small-town habits. So Miss Jennie Stevens, the aid lady, isn't expected to catalogue the women that she meets. She doesn't send out a hasty postcard to senile person or other, "This will introduce Fanny Smith. She needs a small room till she gets her first pay envelope"; and then never know whether Fanny gets it or not.

Instead, when Fanny Smith, on her first venture from Blooksburg, drifts in minus a job, minus friends, minus even a place to sleep, the aid lady becomes Fanny's first friend. She knows personally most of the people she calls up before she sends Fanny out to meet them, and six months from now she'll probably know just how Fanny is getting on in work, and love affairs, too.

To my mind, the aid lady has the best job. But there's a sort of human interest quality about most of those Fort Smith jobs that the Chicago ones lack!

A DISTINGUISHED WOMAN

How many teachers sprang into fame during the war! Here, there and everywhere, steadily working to a high standard of excellence, studying under the leaders of their profession, keeping constantly before their eyes the goal of effective service, those who had ability needed only opportunity to show qualities of leadership.

One such teacher is Caroline Runtz-Rees. Profession? Is she anything but herself as simply a headmistress. Her direct work has been the founding and reorganization of Rosemary Hall. To one who knows Connecticut, however superficially, the mere location of the school, in cultured, wealthy, beautiful old Greenwich on the Boston Post road, spells achievement.

Naturally Miss Runtz-Rees based her achievement on the most thorough preparation and study. She holds the degrees of Reve Titulaire, Ecole des Hautes Etudes, University of Paris and Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, Columbia university.

In other directions, French literature and the suffrage movement claimed her loyalty. "Charles et la Salute Martha" a study in French renaissance, published in both English and French, and many contributions to Modern Language Notes and to the Yale Review have made her name familiar in a scholarly field. A county chairmanship, then state responsibility and finally membership on the national board of the American Woman Suffrage association marked the recognition of her ability by that group of clever women.

With the war, average folk who would never have met Miss Runtz-Rees in her special fields, commenced to learn how to spell her name. For the Council of National Defense asked her to organize the women of her state, and made her a member of the state council; the Young Women's Christian association made her chairman of the executive branch, and then division. With the passage of the Nineteenth amendment, the national Democratic committee named her as the national committeewoman from Connecticut.

Thus does the world "make a beaten highway to your door," as Mr. Emerson once said, if only your message or your school teaching is better than the best of some one else.

NOTICE

To the Voters of Appomattox And Buckingham Counties

Upon the solicitation of friends I hereby announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for the House of Delegates, subject to the Primary to be held August 4th, 1925, to represent Buckingham and Appomattox counties.

I believe the interest of Education, Agriculture, and Good Roads, are the paramount importance, and, if elected pledge my support for these and any other interests for the protection and advancement of the farmer.

I respectfully solicit the vote and influence of the voters of Buckingham and Appomattox counties.

Your Friend,
4-2-t f Claude R. Wood.

There are thirteen Farm Loan Associations in Virginia which have loans exceeding half a million dollars, and yet Appomattox has not quite reached the $200,000 mark. If you are a borrower at a higher rate than 5½ better talk it over with A. H. Clement, Secty-Treas. and get some of this 5½ money on 34 years time, with the privilege of paying it off after five years without additional cost. 5-28 t f

Texas Lady Tells How She Got Rid of Her Troubles.

"The first time I took Cardui, I was in an awful bad way," says Mrs. Ora Cain, of R. F. D. 5, Troup, Texas.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"I am full I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I let me to suffer with it. I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it.

"Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement. . . . I am much better now.

"Cardui has helped me a lot and I am glad to recommend it. I don't feel like the same woman I was last fall.

"My appetite is good now, and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."
